A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, with occasional "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

SWOLLEN RIVERS.

James river at Richmond last night was 15 feet out of its bounds, with the crest of the freshet in sight. The water has backed into the creeks and hollows. Lester street is inundated, boat being used to made passage across the thoroughfare. Car service into Fulton has been temporarily suspended. Cellars from the Main street railway station to the river are full of mud and water. The steamship docks are already covered. The water is slowly creeping up Shockoe creek towards Main street. The Weather Bureau said last night that the maximum of the flood has been reached.

It was expected that the flood would have reached its highest point at Parkersburg, W. Va., last night at a few inches in excess of 40 feet, which is less than was predicted Sunday. A steady rise of two inches an hour was registered all day, with a stage of 39 feet at 6 o'clock last night. No trains could be operated yesterday on the Little Kanawha Railroad, nor between Parkersburg and Wheeling, on the Ohio River Railroad Traffic, however, will probably be resumed today or tomorrow.

The crest of the Ohio river flood at Wheeling, W. Va., was reached at 10 o'clock last night with 42 7-10 feet. All trolley lines and railroads except the Pennsylvania and two lines of the Baltimore and Ohio are out of commission. The property loss was minimized, however, owing to the ample warning which had been given.

The ice is moving out slowly at Havre de Grace, Md., through a very narrow channel to the westward. All the wharves and some of the lower streets were covered last night. The highest water came at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and people living near the river went to and from their homes in boats. This condition existed all day yesterday.

The Potomac river at Williamsport, Md., which reached a height of 20 feet above normal Sunday, began receding that night and yesterday was again within its banks. The ice is still gorged where the Conococheague creek empties into the river, but it is believed it will pass off without damage.

Neglected Colds Threaten Life.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

"Don't trifle with a cold," is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in the case of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry warm clothing are the proper safeguards against colds. If they are maintained through the changeable weather of autumn, winter and spring, the chances of a surprise from ordinary colds will be slight. But the ordinary light cold will become severe if neglected, and a well-established ripe cold is the germs of diphtheria what honey is to the bee. The greatest menace to child life at this season of the year is the neglected cold." Whether it is a child or adult, the cold slight or severe, the very best treatment that can be adopted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is safe and sure. The great popularity and immense sale of this preparation has been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when it is given. For sale by W. F. Creighton and Richard Gibson.

CUTTING AFFRAY.

Otto Flickinger, a German, twenty-nine years old, is believed to have fatally stabbed Rene Claudius Serviere, a Frenchman, thirty-one years old, last night on the third floor of a building at Fourteenth street and New York avenue, southwest, Washington. Serviere is at Emergency Hospital, and little hope is held for his recovery. Flickinger is locked up at the First precinct police station. He has been employed as a professor of German at the Berlitz School of Languages, Fourteenth street and New York avenue northwest. Until recently Serviere was employed at the same institution as a professor in French.

Serviere had nine wounds. The apex of his left lung was cut, he has a long flesh wound on his left arm, his left hand is fearfully hacked, and his right hand and arm are terribly carved.

Serviere told the police that Flickinger was hiding in a closet and leaped at him as he was about to enter his room. He said he grappled with his assailant, and the struggling couple rolled down the hall and half way down the stairs, where they were still battling when a policeman arrived. The prisoner is said to have acknowledged doing the stabbing. He is also credited with stating that the affair was the result of a quarrel due to professional jealously. Flickinger is said to have told Policeman Simpson he stabbed the Frenchman because he did not retract a statement he had made about him.

The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take. Sold by W. F. Creighton & Co.

SIC SEMPER TYRANNIS AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER

TUESDAY EVENING, FEB. 18, 1908.

AT A meeting in the Young Men's Christian Association in San Francisco on Sunday, Ng Poon Chew, editor of the Chinese World, told his audience that China was raising an army of 1,000,000 men to drive Europeans from the empire. "But she will never menace America," said the editor, "because, among other things we have learned recently, is that the United States is the only nation on earth with a conscience." "China," he continued, "is just awakening from her slumber, and she is getting ready to go to arms. When she does, she will send Germany, France, England, Russia and other robbing and thieving nations home in a hurry. If Russia ever tries again to grab any Chinese territory we will fill her full of gory holes—just as Japan did. China is destined to be the greatest nation on earth." Chinamen, it seems, are as likely to become victims of hallucinations as those of other nations. The celestial whose utterances are given above has a greater faith in the United States than many native and to the manner born. He must use a powerful microscope when he discerns a conscience in nations, which are like all corporations, soulless.

ON the plea that Edward Turner, condemned wife murderer, had been reared in a godless community, seventy-five citizens of Breathitt county, Ky., have sent letters and petitions to Governor Patterson, of Tennessee, pleading for a commutation of the death sentence of Turner, who formerly lived in Breathitt county. Turner is sentenced to hang on the 27th instant. The plea of the petitioners is that Turner never had an opportunity to know right from wrong. Dementia Americana, brain storm and other flimsy defenses set up by murderers have long since disgusted people who are appalled at the wave of crime which seems to have settled over this country, but the above is more silly than all else that has been urged in order to enable felons to escape the penalty of their deeds. The murderer referred to above preferred to live in a godless community. He had every opportunity of eschewing evil and cleaving to that which is good, but deliberately and knowingly chose the downward path, and now pleads that fact in extenuation of the crime of wife murder.

THE following announcement was made yesterday by Judge William N. Portlock from the bench in the Norfolk county Circuit Court:

In the event any saloonkeeper is brought before this court and convicted on a charge of violating the liquor law by the sale of whisky on Sundays, I shall dismiss from the force the officers in whose territory the offense was committed. It is the officers' duty to know whether the law is being violated by the saloonkeepers, and if is proven by others that any of the places are kept open, I shall assume that the officers have not performed their duty by the fact of not knowing that such violations of the law exist, and shall dismiss them forthwith.

It has always been assumed by police commissioners or mayors of cities that policemen should know what is going on in their respective beats, and the action of Judge Portlock may result in his example being followed in other places in Virginia.

From Washington.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]

Washington, D. C., February 18.

The committee to whom the measure had been referred today reported favorably to the Senate the bill to pay the State of Virginia the $120,000 advanced by the State to the general government in 1790 to be used in the erection of public buildings in Washington. Should this bill be passed the money will eventually be turned over to the Mount Vernon Avenue Association to which the State of Virginia several years ago transferred the claim.

Counselor Miyaoki, of the Japanese Embassy, called at the State Department today to arrange for the presentation of Ambassador Takahira at the White House. It is probable that this will take place tomorrow when the new Ambassador will present his credentials to the President and the letters of recall of his predecessor, Ambassador Aoki.

Brigadier General Charles E. L. B. Davis, who was recently promoted to that grade from colonel in the corps of engineers, was placed on the retired list of the army because of age today. The vacancy in the list of brigadiers was filled by the promotion of Col. Daniel H. Brush.

The President today sent to the Senate the name of Joab N. Patterson, to be pension agent at Concord, N. H., This is the same place to which Charles Fairbanks was nominated some weeks ago, in opposition to the wishes of the two New Hampshire Senators, Gallinger and Burnham, and largely on the recommendation of Winston Churchill, one of the leaders of the Taft boom in the State. Fairbanks failed of confirmation in the Senate. Patterson, the new appointee, it is said, was also chosen without consulting the New Hampshire Senators, but it is alleged that he is not an active partisan and that he will probably be confirmed without opposition.

The Senate today passed the House resolution making C. F. Chate, of Massachusetts, a member of the board regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

Senator Latimer, of South Carolina, who was operated upon for appendicitis yesterday, had a bad night, according to physicians at Providence Hospital, but is better today.

Sixtieth Congress.

Washington, Feb. 18.

SENATE.

The question of the propriety of Congress instructing an executive officer as to his course in beginning litigation, was raised in the Senate today by Mr. Teller during an effort of Mr. Fulton to pass a resolution instructing the attorney general to proceed in the courts to determined whether there have been any violations of law by land grant railroads in Oregon, and to obtain such relief as is deemed necessary. The resolution came from the judiciary committee. Fulton explained that the aid of the Congress was desired, because the department of justice is not clear whether the government can secure a forfeiture of the land in question and thought an affirmation of the act governing the cases, would aid the government in prosecuting the Southern Pacific, which holds the lands in dispute.

In inveighing against the Aldrich financial bill Senator Stone taunted the republican majority upon the sad plight of the country, which, he declared, had arisen directly from a high tariff policy, and an inefficient currency system.

"You have given us," he exclaimed, "a financial system which is but a patchwork, a sort of crazy-quilt, which turns the financial well being of the country over to the keeping of a great association of banking corporations, without taking pains to sufficiently safeguard the people against abuses and you have fastened upon us a taxing system, under the operation of which grasping monopolies are created to plunder the people."

The Missourian expressed the fear that a "pandora's box is being opened by the Aldrich bill," and urged the issuance of emergency treasury notes instead of emergency bank circulation, for he thought it a grave error to confer additional favors and powers upon national banks.

"I object to giving to banks the power to regulate in any degree the volume of the people's currency by expanding or contracting it, as it may happen to suit their whim or their interests," he said.

He favored an interest change on deposits; denounced stock gambling by banks, and contended for government regulation of all stock dealings by the imposition of a revenue tax.

HOUSE

One of the most dramatic scenes ever witnessed in the House occurred today. By a tactful effort Mr. Boutell swept Taft men, Hughes men, Knox men, in fact all the varieties of republicans and democrats, off their equilibrium and led all alike in a demonstrative ovation to Speaker Cannon.

Mr. Boutell selected a noted anniversary in the life of Speaker Cannon to test his popularity. Just thirty-four years ago Mr. Cannon delivered his first speech in Congress. On that occasion, a veteran Congressman suggested to the House that Cannon "had oats in his pocket." Boutell quoted from the speech which he finally announced had been made by Jos. G. Cannon. Then followed a scene that must have touched the heart of the rugged old legislator from Illinois. From all over the chamber came applause and cheers, the members forgetting their political affiliations to give vent to their personal feelings toward their speaker. Speaker Cannon was blissfully ignorant of what Boutell was to say. By stragegy, Boutell got the floor just before Speaker Cannon yielded the chair to the chairman of the committee of the whole. Blushes on the speaker's face indicated that he soon appreciated about whom his colleague was talking.

TO REDUCE WAGES.

After several conferences between the Southern Railway officials and representatives of the 40,000 machinists and kindred workmen of that system called in Washington to agree to a general reduction in wages, which the Southern finds it necessary to make, it is said by the machinists that the two interested parties are far from agreement.

The Southern has submitted a proposition which is not satisfactory to the machinists. Yesterday morning the delegation was in conference, and a joint conference with General Manager Ackert, of the road, was held in the afternoon, at which the machinists submitted a counter proposition.

The nature of the Southern's proposition was made known yesterday. It is briefly that a reduction of about 6 1-2 per cent. in wages must be made, and the men are not given assurance that the present scale of hours, forty per week, will not also be reduced.

The counter proposition, submitted to the Southern management, is said to be radically different from the one the road proposes. Its details have not been given out.

CARNEGIE'S WEDDING GIFT.

As a wedding gift for Miss Anne Wallace, the librarian of the Carnegie Library, of Atlanta, Ga., who was married to Max Franklyn Howland, of Boston, today, Andrew Carnegie has deposited $100,000 of steel trust bonds in the Home Trust Company of Hoboken, and ordered that every year the interest on the sum, which, amounts of $6,000, be sent to Mrs. Howland.

A few months ago when he heard of Miss Wallace's engagement, Mr. Carnegie wrote her a cordial letter of congratulations. It read pretty much as if it had been written to his own daughter, and at the end, expressed in brusque Scotch fashion, was the statement that later he would send some little wedding remembrance. Monday morning the news as to just what the "little remembrance" was leaked out.

Miss Wallace has been librarian ever since the Carnegie Library was founded, and she was instrumental in securing the $180,000 which Carnegie has given to it. Miss Wallace will not remain with the library after her wedding.

We have received an invitation to be present at the winter convocation of the George Washington University, city of Washington, on the morning of Saturday, the twenty-second day of February, at eleven o'clock, in the Belasco Theatre, when an address will be delivered by Hon. Academic caps and gowns will be worn.

MINERS ENTOMBED.

Twenty-eight miners were imprisoned in the Midvalley Colliery, near Mount Carmel, Pa., yesterday morning, by the breaking of a dam of water which had formed in a drift, which caused a rush of mud into a gangway where the men were at work. All day long a party of rescuers endeavored to reach the entombed men, and shortly after 6 o'clock last night they were given encouragement by sounds of digging from the inside. Later a shot was also heard, indicating that the men were at work to effect their own rescue, and also giving assurance that the air was good.

Among the men entombed are a number of experienced miners, and it is believed that it will be possible to effect the rescue of all the men unless some of them should have met death by being smothered in the rush of mud when the dam broke through the gangway. Seven of the number are Americans.

SENATE.

In the Senate yesterday Senator Parsons introduced a bill which seeks to appropriate $725,000 to the primary and grammar schools of the State.

The House joint resolution, which amends the constitution and makes the enactment of measures easier and abolishes the reading of bills three times, was recommitted to the committee on courts of justice.

The House resolution proposing an amendment to section 46 of the constitution—extending the session to ninety days—was considered. The roll was called on concurrence and the resolution was agreed to by a vote of 16 to 11. Twenty-one votes are necessary to pass the resolution, and it is awaiting a reconsideration, which will be had today.

Senator King offered a resolution extending the session to midnight March 21, and requesting Governor Swanson to convene the general assembly in extraordinary session at noon on March 23, in order to dispose of the vast amount of business now on hand. The resolution went over until today. This will give the members two weeks of extra work, for which they will receive no pay, and the extra session would give them $250 for a thirty-day session.

The Senate passed the House bill fixing the rules of evidence in cases arising under the "unwritten law" and permitting the introduction of testimony in disproof of the alleged criminal assaults. The bill has passed the House. The Washington statue will be a copy of the famous Houdon statue, and an appropriation of $10,000 is made to carry out the provisions of the act.

Mr. Caton's bill passed the House without debate. The bill provides an amendment to an act approved March 7, 1903, entitled an act to authorize municipal corporations to issue bonds for the redemption of outstanding bonds. UNNA DEFINES A CAUSE.

European Skin Specialist Says Dandruff is Caused by Parasites.

Upon that theory, proved beyond a doubt, a cure for dandruff was sought after. Scientists, chemists, druggists and physicians all "took a hand" and the successful issue is the present product known as "Newbro's Herpicide."

This remedy actually kills the parasites that infest the hair bulb, does its work most effective and contains not an atom of substance injurious to anything else than the germ alone. Herpicide causes the hair to grow as nature intended it should, soft and abundant.

THE EXPLOSION ON THE MAINE.

The Diario Espanol, the organ of the ultra-Spanish element in Havana, in a leading editorial yesterday referring to the special celebration by Americans of the tenth anniversary of the blowing up of the battle ship Maine, said:

"Every one, including the large part of the Yankee nation which is honest, and which maintained that the declaration of war against Spain was a crime, believes, and will continue to believe, that the explosion was arranged in the War Department at Washington, and that it was carried out by mercenary hands among the crew, acting under orders from officers on board. At the burial of the victims of the tragic event, which was arranged and paid for by the Spanish city government, all the officers of the wrecked vessel assisted, with the captain at their head, wearing their brilliant full-dress uniforms.

That circumstance was, and continues to be, one of the weighty proofs that must convince all that all the officers save the one chosen as a victim, had taken their luggage ashore from the ship and placed it in a safe and convenient place."

The editorial contends throughout that the world will continue to believe the Maine was destroyed by an explosion from the inside until the Washington government raises the wreck, and from this evidence proves the contrary.

Attempt to Burn Tenements.

New York, Feb. 18.—Fire bugs made an attempt to burn a three story tenement in Howard street, Brooklyn, today endangering the lives of twelve persons. Rags saturated with kerosene were stuffed between the steam pipes and the wall. The ordor of burning oil awakened one of the tenants who spread the alarm in time to extinguish the blaze before it got fairy started.

New York, Feb. 18.—The lives of 125 persons comprising the twenty-four families occupying a six-story tenement in east 122nd street were imperilled today in an incendiary fire started in the basement. The flames were discovered before they made much headway and all the occupants driven from the building. The fire, however, created a panic in the neighborhood. Investigation showed the woodwork in the cellar had been smeared with oil. A wood and coal dealer who occupied the cellar but was missing as the time of the fire is being sought by the police.

Burned To Death.

Danesboro, Pa., Feb. 18—Many families were left homeless, Mrs. Mary Luxenberg lost her life and her son Henry was probably fatally burned here early today when five buildings on Philadelphia avenue were destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $100,000. After awakening her son, Mrs. Luxenberg went to her own room to get some clothing. She closed the room door and becoming confused in the dense smoke was burned to death after her son had made several efforts to rescue her. Several firemen were injured by falling brick.

York, Pa., Feb. 18—Mrs. Issac Harrington, wife of the general ticket agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and her grandchild, aged three months, were burned to death today, in a fire which destroyed their home.

Suicide in a Hotel.

New York, Feb. 18.—Leaving a note signed "A Dead One," a young man dressed in expensive clothing, who the police say has for three months been leading a fast life in the tenderloin, spending money freely, committed suicide today at the Parker Hotel in Sixth avenue. The body was found, fully dressed, lying on the bed by a hotel employe. On the dresser was a glass which doctors said contained poison. The suicide's note was addressed "To Whom It May Concern" and ran: "Don't try to find out who I am, for I have caused my people enough trouble without them knowing of it. I am only one of those better off dead than in this life." Initials and marks had been cut from the clothing, but in the man's hat were the initials "A. M." The body was taken to the morgue.

Gillette to be Electrocuted.

Albany, N. Y. Feb. 18.—Chester Gillette, murderer of Grace Brown whose body was found in Big Moose Lake, must die in the electric chair. The Court of Appeals refused to grant a new trial in his case in an opinion handed down this afternoon.

Gillette's counsel exhausted their efforts in their appeal for a new trial for their client. The decision upholds the right of introducing the famous love letters of "Billy" Brown to Gillette which have become known as the most marvelous testimonials of feminine love, self-denial and sacrifice of the age. The decision was unanimous.

Suicide of a Pawnbroker.

New York, Feb. 18.—The fear that he was losing his mind and worry over the tying up of his money in the Mechanics and Traders' Bank, which closed recently, are believed to have driven Harris Rosenberg, a well-to-do pawnbroker, to suicide today before the wheels of a subway train. He threw himself in front of a south bound train early today and was ground to death, six of the seven cars passing over his body. Two years ago Rosenberg's brother Aaron, who had been his inseparable companion, was sent to an insane asylum. A taint of insanity is said to run in Rosenberg's family and he feared that he, too, might lose his mind.

Pittsburg, Feb, 18.—George J. Gusky, millionaire and youngest son of Mrs. J. M. Gusky, the well known worker, entered his apartments at the Hotel Henry here today, and, after joking and laughing with a few friends, shot himself in the right temple with a revolver. He was removed to a hospital where his death is momentarily expected. No reason for the act is known.

Miners Rescued.

Williamsport, Pa., Feb. 18.—Twenty-five of the twenty-six men who were entombed in the Midvalley coal mine near Mount Carmel yesterday by the bursting of a reservoir were alive and well at 10 o'clock last night. One man was killed under the debris. The others stood in water up to their hips until the rescuers dug through to them. They were entombed eleven hours.

Defends Labor Decisions.

New York, Feb 18—William R. Hearst, in a signed letter in the American this morning, defends the recent labor decisions of the Supreme Court. Among other things Mr. Hearst says that he agrees with the court and thinks boycotting is illegal, "It is a conspiracy to injure somebody's business," he says. He thinks the decision means that blacklisting is equally illegal, and that the court will so decide as soon as such a case comes before it.

The Drowning of Marines.

Newport, R. I., Feb. 18—Examination of the crew of the tug Annie R. Wood has convinced the police that the death of the two marines who fell or lesped overboard Sunday is a clear case of suicide. They have ascertained, however, that the men did not drown themselves together, and doubt the story of a suicide pact. Both marines, the police allege, had been drinking when the tug steamed away from Newport to Fort Greble. The police have finished their investigation. Their verdict is that McIntosh fell overboard accidentally and that Steenerson drowned himself when temporarily deranged by the news of his friend's fate.

Charged with Murder.

Reading, Pa. Feb. 18.—A warrant was issued today for the arrest of Abraham Rosenthal, brother-in-law of Lewis B. Clawson, the wealthy shirt manufacturer, who was killed in his office Saturday formally charging Rosenthal with the crime. ELKS' CARNIVAL.

Armory Hall Brilliantly Illuminated and Comfortably Filled Last Night.

A prettier night could not have been selected than the one ushering in the opening of the carnival given by Alexandria Lodge, No. 758, B. P. O. E. The atmosphere was crisp and the sky exhibited the mighty handiwork of the Exalted Ruler of the Universe. The moon showed forth its glory to the happy maidens who tripped joyfully to the armory about 8 o'clock. With minds anticipating a lovely week they entered one of the neatest decorated buildings ever seen in this city. It was indeed a pleasure to be present on this occasion. Charming young ladies with cheeks already aglow with expectation of a busy week, neatly attired in all the colors of the rainbow, were awaiting orders from those in charge of the booths to begin gathering in the shekels. The boothholders vied with their assistants in receiving congratulations, which obtained during the first hour. The magnificent arrangement was admired by all and the ingenious idea brought out in the reproduction of Mount Vernon by Mr. A. D. Montier was gazed on in amazement. The entire hall presents a picture, the history of which will thrill the heart and appeal to the sentiment of generations yet unborn. Owing to indisposition Mayor Paff could not be present to formally open the carnival, but a gentle reminder that the mid-winter festivities had begun came to one in the shape of "digging in your jeens." The committee from start to finish were busy managing the details and the bright-faced lassies saw to it that not a fellow guilty of having a dollar escaped. Space will not permit a minute description of each booth nor the mention of each young lady's name attached thereto, but from observation they are determined to crown Alexandria Lodge's efforts with success.

On each of the booths are many handsome donations received from all sections of the country, which will be raffled off. One, a costly pair of gentlemen's gunning boots, donated by the Hess Shoe Co. through Mr. Charles B. Marshall, is at the fancy booth, the success of which is in the hands of Mrs. Jacob Brill and a number of charming assistants.

Tonight a number of organizations are expected and the Metropolitan Quartette, of Washington, will sing from 9 till 10 o'clock.

Dancing will begin tonight at 10.30.

Tomorrow night Mr. Forrest Birrell, Alexandria's well-known soloist, will entertain those who attend.

RETAIL MERCHANTS.

Last night a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Protective Association was held at their hall. The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, W. P. Graves; first vice president, J. D. Matter; second vice president, W. H. Peck; third vice president, F. M. Adams; treasurer, F. C. Mathews; tressurer, B. B. Smith; sergeant-at-arms, A. Bowie; trustees, C. R. Yates, C. O. Pulman, J. E. Merchant, M. E Parker and Julius Wolf.

After a social meeting of the association and their invited guests all proceeded to the Opera House Cafe where a sumptuous banquet was furnished by Mr. L. Brill. The dining room was handsomely decorated with flags and electric lights and the menu was everything one could wish.

Mr. C. O. Pulman on behalf of the association presented the president, Mr. W. P, Graves, with a handsome cane. Mr. Graves made a speech thanking the members for their token of appreciation. He then spoke of the workings and good the association was doing the business men of the city, after which he called upon Mr. Weil, past president, to act as toastmaster for the evening.

Speeches was made by a number of the members and invited guests, there being about 30 or 40 present.

DEATH OF MRS. BROADUS.

Mrs. Mary C. Broadus, for many years a resident of Alexandria, died this morning at 10:45 o'clock at her residence, 601 Queen street after, a brief illness. She was the widow of the late James M. Broadus, formerly General Ticket Agent of the old Virginia Midland Railroad. She was born December 29, 1823 in the county of Madison, Virginia and removed to Alexandria from Culpeper county, about 1855, where she continued to live, with the exception of the period of the civil war. Mrs. Broadus was widely known and greatly esteemed. Simple services will be held at 5 o'clock Wednesday at her late residence and the remains will be taken to Culpeper on the morning train Thursday.

ESCAPED FROM POLICEMAN.

About half-past one o'clock this morning Officer Rawlett discovered a strange negro in the alley in the rear of the residence of Mr. Frank King, on Prince street, near Alfred. The officer took the trespasser in custody and started toward the station house with him. Upon reaching the corner of King and Royal streets the darkey broke away from the officer and ran south on Royal street. Mr. Rawlett discharged four shots at the fugitive, but the latter succeeded in making his escape.

Jr. O.-U. A.

At a meeting of Belle Haven Council, Jr. O. U. A., last night, business of importance to the order was transacted, also further arrangements were made for participating in the parade on Saturday next. Several visitors from Alexandria Council, No. 33, were present and a number of speeches were made and heartily enjoyed, especially that of Mr. J. H. Trimyer. At a late hour the meeting adjourned.

BAZAAR.

A musical and bazaar will be held at Lee Camp Hall on Friday evening next at 7:30 o'clock, for the benefit of the Braddock Heights Episcopal Mission. After the vocal and instrumental music a sale of fancy articles will be held.

Some broken sizes in Hess shoes $5 and $6 grades, $2.50 get them, if you are quick. Marshall, 422 King street.

MIDGETS' CONFESSION.

Reference was made last Friday to a confession said to have been made by the colored man, George Midgets' hanged for murder in this city that day. The murder was committed near Norristown, Pa., early on the morning of October 16, 1906, although Midgets seems to have thought it occurred in September of that year. Rev. Alexander Truatt, pastor of the Alfred street Baptist Church, at Midgets' request sent the following letter, written by the condemned man to the Chief of Police of Norristown, together with the details described by Midgets:

Alexandria, Va., Jan. 15, 1908.

To the public: I, George Midgets, requests Rev. Alexander Truatt, my spiritual adviser, to get certain information for me, as I am not certain whether I committed the crime to which I refer, as I did not see the party I shot. I want to know for sure, so I could confess it to him and repent of it before I die, as some one else may be made to suffer for what I have done, as I am to suffer for what some one else has done. I have related the details of the matter to him, and I give him permission to make it known thirty days after my death. I have enough on me for the present. I am innocent of the crime in Alexandria, but guilty of the Norristown crime. GEORGE MIDGETS.

Rev. Alex. Truatt communicated with the Chief of Police of Norristown and received the following reply:

Norristown, Pa., Jan. 11, 1908.

Mr. Alexander Truatt, 710 Princess St., Alexandria, Va.

Dear Sir: His Honor the Mayor has just handed me your letter dated January 3d. He has been away from home since the first of the year, and has just returned, and the letter was lying on his desk; hence the delay. I will say that there was a murder committed here in a gypsy camp on the morning of October 16, 1906, instead of September 15th. It was in the morning about 2 o'clock. The man murdered was a member of the Stanley band of gypsies. The murdered man's name was Frank Smith. He was shot in the neck by two colored men. One was of copper color, weight 175 to 180 pounds; wall-eyed or a defect in his eyes. The other was of lighter color, weight 150 pounds, height 5 feet 7 inches. These men have never been captured. I would be glad to hear from you again. Thanking you for an early reply, I remain yours truly,

WM. H. RODENBAUGH,
Chief of Police.

Midgets' spiritual adviser subsequently received another letter from the Chief of Police which was as follows.

Norristown, Pa., Jan. 17, 1908

Mr. Alexander Truatt, Alexandria, Va.

Dear Sir—About a week ago his honor the Mayor handed me a letter from you making inquiry about a murder committed here about September 15th, 1906, in a gypsy camp near here. I answered your letter at once, stating that there was a murder committed near here at a gypsy camp, but instead of it being September 15th it was October 15, or rather on the morning of October 16th about 2 a. m. A member of the gypsies named Frank Smith was shot and killed, also robbed of about $100 by a colored man. In fact two colored men entered the camp. One was a copper colored man, weight 175 pounds, height 5 feet 8 or 9 inches, wall eyed or showing the whites of his eyes; he wore at that time a light slouch hat pulled down over his eyes. The other was of lighter color, weight 150 pounds, height about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches. This party has never been apprehended, and the county commissioners here offer a reward of $250 for the party. I would be very much pleased to here from you in relation to this matter at your earliest convenience. The reward still holds good. Hoping for an early reply I remain,

WM. H. RODENBAUGH,
Chief of Police.

A number of chapters of Midgets' life were published in the Gazette about a month ago when Governor Swanson respited him until last Friday. Those, with the above, it is believed, embrace about all he wrote or related during his confinement in Alexandria.

HEROIC YOUTH.

The Seattle Daily Times of a recent date said:

"In a vain attempt to save the life of Harry Hughes, purser of the steamboat Dorothy, Monday afternoon, Samuel K. Shay, a well-known timber dealer with offices in the Lowland Building, plunged again and again into the freezing waters of Lake Washington until, his strength spent, he was dragged by force into the lifeboat where he lay gasping with his exertions and chilled to the marrow. Clothed in heavy garments to withstand the wintry air, Shay took no thought of the danger he was running from cramps or being dragged under by the weight of his clothes, but dived several times in the spot where Hughes had disappeared, swimming beneath the surface and doing everything in his power to save the unfortunate young man."

[The heroic young man is a son of Mr. Aurelius O. Shay and a grandson of the late S. King Shay, of Alexandria.]

FROM HORSE CAR TO THE TROLLEY

Story of the Wonderful Development in Electric Traction During the Past Twenty Years.

PASSING OF STEAM TRACTION

Gradual Elimination of Distance Through the Development of the Electric Locomotive—Chicago to New York in Ten Hours.

During the summer of 1887, there appeared in the New York Sun the following facetious news item:

"They tried an electric car on Fourth avenue yesterday. It created an amount of surprise and consternation from Third St. to One Hundred and Seventeenth St. that was something like that caused by the first steamboat on the Hudson. Small boys yelled "dynamite!" and "rats!" and made similar appreciative remarks until they were hoarse. Newly-appointed policemen debated arresting it, but went no further. The car horses which were met on the other track kicked without exception, as was natural, over an invention which threatens to relegate them to a sausage factory."

That was less than twenty years ago. Today the New York Central Railroad Company is expending $50,000,000 in the electrification of the first thirty-five miles of its system, and the car horses were long ago relegated to the boneyard, if not to the "sausage factory."

"They" have done marvelous things since the increasing knowledge of electricity opened up a new world of achievement, and we have scarcely crossed the threshold. In 1880 the electric car was a dream; in 1890, an experiment; in 1900, a great and wonderful fact which is revolutionizing passenger transportation and will enable human beings to move from place to place twice as fast as they do at present.

Born in Old Vermont.

When in 1834 Thomas Davenport, of Brandon, Vt., ran a toy motor mounted on wheels on a small circular railway, the modern electric railroad with its possible speed of over one hundred miles an hour was born.

In 1838 Robert Davidson, of Aberdeen, Scotland, built an electric locomotive which actually reached a speed of four miles an hour on the Edinburgh-Glasgow railway. Nine years later Professor Moses G. Farmer operated an experimental car which carried two passengers at Dover, New Hampshire.

Then the United States congress became interested. By special grants Professor Page of Smithsonian institute was aided in the construction of several forms of motors. One of them was used as a locomotive and, driven by a battery of one hundred Grove elements, was tried April 29, 1851, on a railroad running from Washington to Bladensburg. A speed of nineteen miles an hour was developed, so great that it destroyed the batteries.

Numerous other experiments followed, all commercial failures because the motors were crude and the source of power a primary battery. The development of the wonderful modern dynamo was necessary before electric railroading could become a commercial success. The first great step was in 1860, when an Italian named Pacinotti invented a continuous current dynamo. Three years later the first practical commercial machine for continuous current operation was made by Gramme.

Still the modern electric car was impossible. The "reversibility of function" had yet to be discovered, involving electrical transmission of energy through two machines, one driven by power and generating electricity; the other reversing the operation, receiving electricity and developing mechanical power.

Like many other important discoveries, this is said to have been the result of accident. A workman coupled a machine to a live circuit by mistake and was greatly astonished to see it begin to rotate. This reversibility of function was publicly demonstrated for the first time at the Vienna exposition in 1873.

Not until 1879 was the first electric railway put in operation, taking the current from a dynamo, using a motor and carrying passengers. This novelty was in operation at the Berlin exposition and was a mile and two-thirds in length. The train consisted of a small locomotive and three small cars, capable of carrying twenty people. It reached a speed of eight miles an hour.

About this time Stephen D. Field and Thomas Edison in the United States began experimenting. In 1880 Edison was operating at Menlo Park an electric locomotive which pulled two cars.

The First Electric Railroad.

The first regular electric line to be established was at Lichterfelde, Germany, near Berlin. It was only a mile and a half in length and opened for traffic in May 1881. The trains carried twenty-six passengers, at a maximum speed of thirty miles an hour.

The first electric car to be operated regularly in the United States was installed by Deft on the Hamden branch of the Baltimore Union Passenger Railway in August, 1886. That was barely twenty years ago. So great as the skepticism of the public and railway men generally that the contract under which the road was built withheld payment one year so that it might be determined whether the cars would run. "No one but a knave or a fool would undertake such a thing," said a well known scientist at the time. Scientists sometimes have trouble keeping up with the procession. About the same time small cars were operated by Van Derpoele at South Bend, Ind., followed by other small roads in Edison Electric Locomotive Operated Experimentally at Menlo Park, 1880.

Windsor, Canada; Appleton, Wis.; Port Huron, Mich.; Scranton, Pa., and Montgomery, Ala. In the autumn of 1884 Frank L. Sprague, whose name is inseparably connected with electric traction, began to attract attention with his motors.

Twenty Years of Achievement.

At the beginning of 1887 there were in the whole world less than sixty miles of electric railroad track, and only about one hundred motors and motor cars. In 1905 there were nearly thirty thousand miles of electric track in the United States alone.

This change was not accomplished without opposition, discouragement and financial difficulties. Mr. Sprague himself, who was so potent a factor in working this change, has told the story of his first important contract. In the spring of 1887, the Union Passenger Railway company of Richmond, Va., engaged him to build an electric railway. The first car was run out one night while the skeptical people slept, to make sure it could climb the hills. It started out in a blaze of glory and ignominiously was towed back again by four big mules. But Sprague persisted until on Feb. 2, 1888, in a drizzling rain, the road opened for business.

From that time forward the future of electric railroading was assured and events moved rapidly. City after city adopted the new motive power; horse cars became things of the past; interurban roads began to gridiron the country everywhere, and in each instance a commercial success was scored. Electric interurban lines have been money makers from the start.

The greatest development has been in the east; but the west is not far behind. The Aurora, Elgin and Chicago Electric railway (the third-rail system) which has been in operation several years, is famous. From one central power station over two hundred miles of road are operated, or will be as soon as the line to Belvidere is completed. Electricity at wholesale is sold to cities and villages along the route for lighting purposes; electricity for power is sold to farmers. Trains of elegant cars run into Chicago at a speed which would have seemed impossible a few years ago. Passengers wave good bye to steam trains on a paralleling railroad, which they pass easily. A parlor and dining car is one of the luxuries which the suburbanites enjoy going to and from the city, and the railroad seems a veritable gold mine for its owners.

The horse car has long since disappeared. Will the iron horse, the great steam locomotive, be supplanted also? This question occurs to all who can see the significance of passing events. Probably not for many years to come, as far as heavy freight traffic is concerned, because steam is especially applicable to the hauling of freight. But the action of the New York Central in electrifying thirty-five miles of its road leading out of New York, and the popular agitation for similar improvement in Chicago and elsewhere, would seem to point to a time not far distant when electric railroads will connect distant cities and greatly shorten the hours of travel.

Chicago to New York in Ten Hours.

In fact such a railway already is being built between Chicago and New York by the Chicago-New York Electric Air Line Railroad company, of Chicago. This company, headed by a group of practical railroad men, proposes to run limited trains, making not more than three stops, through to New York or Chicago, in ten hours. The thought fairly takes one's breath away at first, but the project considered soberly seems practical enough, and certainly is "a consummation devoutly to be wished." The work of grading began Sept. 1 near LaPorte, Ind.

As the new road will be an air line, with few curves, the route surveyed is 160 miles shorter than the Pennsylvania "Short Line", and 230 miles shorter than the Lake Shore and New York Central, each of which runs trains covering the distance in eighteen hours. Taking into consideration the shorter route of the Air Line, this is equivalent to a fourteen-hour service. With low grades, a straight track and no grade crossings, the seventy-five miles an hour average necessary to a ten-hour service ought easily to be maintained. Even on the first class steam roads of today ninety miles an hour is not uncommon for short distances.

The Scientific American of Feb. 18, 1905, speaking editorially of the New York Central experiment, says, "The success of this installation, of which there can be no doubt whatever, marks the first step in the gradual substitution of the electric for the steam locomotive in the operation of long distance express trains." The Chicago-New York project may be regarded the second step.

Mr. Sprague himself says that speed is "a matter of finance." "What then will determine the future?" he asks. "Chiefly the financial factor, as it must the future of any other great industrial problem. When savings in operation and the increased return for traffic will more than pay a fair dividend on money invested for electrical equipment, will trunk lines be operated by electricity."

Professor Charles P. Steinmetz, one of the greatest authorities on electricity, is quoted as saying, "There is no limit to the speed that may be developed in electric traction—that is, there is no limit up to 150 or 200 miles an hour. Higher speed than that the car wheels could not stand. They would fly to pieces from centrifugal force. Not only can a speed of 120 miles an hour be maintained on a train equipped with electricity, but in my opinion it is an entirely feasible scheme from the commercial point of view."

First Regular Electric Railway in United States, Baltimore, 1886.

At any rate, the world seems on the eve of great things, and no scientist dares say today as was said twenty years ago, "a man is a knave or a fool." The attitude of the American public is one of faith and expectancy, best expressed by a recent remark of an old lady in her last sickness:

"I don't want to die," she said, "I want to see what they are going to do."

The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an atomizer, is an unspeakable relief to sufferers from Catarrh. Some of them describe it as a Godsend, and no wonder. Liquid Cream Balm contains all the healing, purifying elements of the solid form, and it never fails to satisfy.
